

Women's & Gender Studies

1st SESSION

Special Problems: Family Violence

WMST/SOWK 498-77 4 credits

 CLASS MEETS 6/15/09 – 6/19/09 ***

This course will use feminist theory, along with other theories, to examine family violence in the context of contemporary society. Specific topics to be covered include: partner violence, and youth violence. Film, fiction, and other media will be integrated into the delivery of the course materials.

G. Jansen, Mon-Fri, 8:00 am-4:00 pm

CHENEY CAMPUS

Gender & Communication

WMST/CMST 414-77 5 credits

Prerequisite: One 300-level course in CMST or WMST or permission of the instructor.

Satisfies cultural and gender diversity university graduation requirement.

This course examines the current research on the interactions among language, gender and communication in contemporary social and cultural contexts.

L. Kissling, Mon-Fri, 10:30 am-12:45 pm

CHENEY CAMPUS

Psychology of Women

WMST/PSYC 331-77 4 credits

Prerequisite: ENGL 201 or equivalent.

Satisfies cultural and gender diversity university graduation requirement.

The psychology of women in terms of their bodies, socialization, personality, affiliation and achievement motivations, abnormal behavior patterns, therapy, and personal growth needs.

K. Islam-Zwart, Tues, Thurs, 1:00 pm-5:30

CHENEY CAMPUS

Women & Ethics

WMST/PHIL 417-30 5 credits

Prerequisite: At least one of the following: WMST 101 or 310 or PHIL 211 or 212.

Satisfies cultural and gender diversity university graduation requirement.

The course will begin with a brief examination of the treatment of women within traditional ethics. We will then address the views of early women philosophers, followed by a close analysis of contemporary feminist approaches to ethics.

Marinucci, Monday, Wednesday, 4:30 pm-9:45 pm

RIVERPOINT CAMPUS

Women/Men in Anthropology

WMST/ANTH 496 77 1 credit

 CLASS MEETS 6/27/09 ***

In this class, we'll discuss the insights that anthropology brings to understanding men, women, and their relationships. We'll use cross-cultural information to evaluate similarities and differences around the world.

J. Smith, Saturday, 8:00 am -5:00 pm

CHENEY CAMPUS

Women/Men In Literature

WMST/ENGL 400-77 1 credit

 CLASS MEETS 7/10/09 ***

This course teaches the integration of women authors, the ideas of men writing about women, and ideas interesting to women in the study of literature. We will deal with textbook selections and comparative treatment of women and men in a literature survey course. The course will provide a feminist approach and review the literature on gender balance.

L. Reeves, Friday, 8:00 am-5:30 pm

CHENEY CAMPUS

2nd SESSION

Women/Men in Contemporary Art

WMST/ART 409-77 1 credit

 CLASS MEETS 7/20/09 ***

The class focuses on how the cultural arts describe society, examining as it does so a variety of social issues. Students will suggest ways in which they can integrate women into arts and into their understanding of larger cultural relationships.

N. Hathaway, Saturday, 8:00 am-5:30 pm

CHENEY CAMPUS

Sociology of the Family

WMST/SOCI 370-77 5 credits

Prerequisite: SOCI 101.

A consideration of family structures, cultures, and interactions, changing family patterns and contemporary family debates.

Tedescoe, Mon-Fri, 1:00 pm-3:15 pm

CHENEY CAMPUS